NEW LITERARY CLUB HERE. INSTALLATION OF EAGLES

Organized at High School Last Night for Purpose of Promoting Cultural Improvement.

As a highly interesting meeting in the high school library last night was perfected organization of a fortnightly literary club, having as its object mutual benefit to its members and a general cultural influence.

The following officers were chosen: H. W. Hiltz, president; Miss Lillian Whitman, vice president; Miss Antonia Mendoza, secretary. The club was authorized to name a special committee to select a suitable name for the organization, and also to appoint three other committees on program, query and membership.

It was determined that the meeting of the club should be held every two weeks on Friday night, and plans for interesting programs during the present year were launched with enthusiasm.

The meeting was for the purpose of organization, but after this business was dispatched an informal program followed, consisting in a discussion of the work of Edgar Allan Poe. The poetry of Poe was treated by Milton H. Greer, the prize by J. M. Jones.

Following this queries with regard to Poe's life and work were distributed, the answers and discussions proving of marked interest and worth.

It was tentatively agreed that a public program should be offered in celebration of the anniversary of Robert Burns. This falls on January 25, Sunday, hence the program will be given on the night of Monday, January 26, unless contingencies arise to prevent.

Poultry Men Will Inaugurate Extensive Educational Campaign in Interest of Their Industry

At a meeting of the Panhandle Poultry Association held Thursday night it was decided that a vigorous campaign of education in the interest of the poultry industry should immediately be inaugurated and carried on throughout the season. Said for sale, secretary-treasurer of the association.

It is surprising how little our farmers and other folks who are trying to raise chickens know about the business. I had a man in my office the other day who had three hundred hens running around in his backyard and who had never seen a poultry journal until I gave him one. Few people realize the importance of the American hen and fewer still have any idea what a factor our poultry has developed into in the commerce of the United States.

It is easy to tell them that most of the eggs of the country are poultry products, bring the most money they would perhaps doubt the statement. But such is the fact, and the association must be enforced by making them the cotton crop of the country is far secondary to the poultry crop and the two billion dollars annually realized from the poultry industry of the United States. The poultry industry is not only the most important industry in the country, but it is the most profitable. There is no end to the possibilities and no danger of overproduction. The most of the food is used in the most wholesome, the cheapest to produce and the easiest to buy. Eggs are always in demand and go far to make up the diet of our population. Right here I want to say a word on eggs which might prove of value to some of our readers.

The second half of a central market thousands of dollars of eggs in the Panhandle are devoted to in the country stores, in the markets on the farm or in the place of storage on the farms in summer time. From production far exceeds home consumption and eggs in laying season are sold at very low prices and are often of little value. This is due to the fact that the eggs are not sold in a large extent.

The fertility in the eggs starts them to rot. Incubate eggs stored in a dark and cool place and turned now and then, will keep for many weeks in the hottest weather. Let the farmers of the Panhandle look up their male birds after the hatching season and they will be able in a large measure to overcome a glutted market, assure better laying of their hens and be in position to hold their eggs until the market warrants their sale.

Our Association, in its plans to launch an educational campaign of poultry business, has only the interests of the country in view. We want the farmers to learn all about the raising and care of poultry. We want to get them into our organization so they can share in the advantages always afforded to the membership. We want to develop this country, which is naturally adapted for profitable poultry production, along our line as well as it is being developed along other lines, and we ask the hearty co-operation of all our people.

At the meeting Thursday night a committee on membership and finance was appointed, which is composed of the following: E. L. Olin, F. S. Davis, T. W. McFriede.

It was decided that the show this year shall be held in Amarillo Dec. third to eighth inclusive. Walter Burton of Arlington, who acted in the capacity of judge of the show last year and gave general information among the exhibitors, is to be employed again this year. Instead of awarding premiums on the showing basis as heretofore, this year's show and that experienced poultry raisers be engaged to deliver the lectures on every evening of the show week.

The meeting also decided in favor of the establishment of a strictly Panhandle division, in which special prizes are to be offered for Panhandle-raised birds.

MISS ERMA MITCHELL, SUCCEEDS TO PNEUMONIA

News reaches Amarillo of the sad and unexpected death of Miss Erma Mitchell of Waco, the message coming Thursday to her aunt, Mrs. Anna DeWitt, at 801 Phillips street, at whose home Miss Mitchell was enjoying a pleasant all summer. The deceased was only twenty years old and was deeply beloved by a host of friends here. She was an ardent worker in the First Baptist church, her parents but a short while back having lived at 1618 Taylor street and still own that valuable piece of property. Up to the time of her illness Miss Mitchell was enjoying the best of health, but Christmas day she was stricken with malignant la grippe which later developed into pneumonia, to which dread disease she succumbed Thursday.

CATTLEMAN REPORTED WOUNDED AT SHAMROCK

R. M. Cornett, Rumor Says, Shot Through Head in Affray Over Business Transaction

Report reached Amarillo late yesterday afternoon of a shooting at Shamrock, in which R. M. Cornett, a prominent cattleman, was said to have been shot through the head and seriously wounded.

Details of the affair were meager, and efforts to obtain telephone connection with Shamrock proved futile. It was rumored that Cornett and another stockman engaged in an argument over a business affair, involving a few thousand dollars, and that an altercation followed with serious results.

The man who did the shooting was placed under arrest, following the slaying of Cornett.

AMERICAN NATIONAL IN DENVER JAN. 20

Officers of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association have sent out invitations and letters of credentials to members to attend the American National Livestock Association's 17th annual convention, which will be held in Denver Jan. 29-32. A number of local cattlemen have accepted their invitation to attend the convention, since matters of great importance to Texas cattle raisers are to be taken up by the meeting. The railroad has announced a fare of two cents per mile each way for the occasion.

Files Suit in County Court

T. G. Walker yesterday filed suit in the Potter County Court against the C. R. L. & P. Ry. Co. in which he asks for damages in the sum of $997.00, which he claims to have sustained on a shipment of cattle from Howe, Okla. to Glenrio, N. M., over defendant's route.
